That the star of Premier William descendent; that it coalition of the moderates of the Labor party with the Liberals is likely, and that the price of coal has risen $1.25 s ton retail because of the way the coal miners' strike was settled, are the opinious tails are expect. of Hon. C. Gregory Wade, former pre-mier of New South Wales, who ar-rived on the Makura today for a short visit in Honolulu, en route to South-ern California and London.

"Premier Hughes' own party has expelled him," said Wade. "He poses as a Labor member still, but his following in the house outside of members of the cabinet is only three members of the calinet is only three mem-bers out of 75. His political existence from day to day is dependent on the support of the Liberal party."

Wade believes there may soon be some kind of a coalition be-tween the moderate of the Labor party and Liberals. "Such a thing has already taken place in New South Wales," he says, "owing to somewhat similar causes. The Labor party was split over conscription. Every Labor member who would not

"To the Liberals in New South Wales this was an opportunity for combining with the moderates of the combining with the moderates of the Labor party who had been expelled, in forming a new political party."

The former premier says there is a great deal of industrial unrest in Australia at present, not only in the coal but other industries. When the coal miners struck for an eight-hour day from "bank to bank," a court of arbi-tration was appointed under the War Precautions Act. It made a drastic ruling, ordering the mine owners to reopen their mines on an eight-hour hasis for underground work, with the right to employers to be compensated for money loss sustained by reduction of output. The affect of this has been to increase wholesale coal prices. 3 shillings (75 cents) a ton and re-tail from 4 to 5 shillings ($1 to $1.25) a ton. The wholesale price is about

The bill which Senator Charles F Chillingworth intends to introduce in the next legislature limiting the life of Honolulu saloons gained important support yesterday afternoon when three officers and representatives of the local Stevedores' Association pledged their support and that of the organization and when Senator William C. Achi voluntarily agreed to work for the bill's passage.

It was a very quiet little delegation that called on Chillingworth at his office yesterday afternoon and told him they appreciated his efforts to make saloons in Honolulu a thing of the past and they confidentaly assured him that the 1600 members of their organization were in favor of his plan. The men were Robert Kukini, president; Charles Haloua, vice president, and Thomas Punee, vice-president. Ha-loua has been a stevedore for 16 years and Punee for 19 years.

Senstor Achi, who is an employer of many laborers, went to Chillingworth yesterday, congratulated him on his move and promised whole-hearted support. Then he went to George W. Paty, secretary of the Anti-Saloon League, telling him about the same thing. "My men are not nearly so efficient with the saloons running." he said. "I want them closed."

Achi Speaks Strongly
"I admire Chillingworth's stand, declared Senator Achi forcefully to Star-Pulletin representative today, good one, too, but despite the loepublican party platform that duced at the next session of the legisshall be no tampering with the
